

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of fabricating an aluminum nitride (AlN) substrate, wherein the substrate is obtained by spraying a powder onto a support at a high temperature and at a high speed, the powder including AlN grains covered with a layer of an oxide precursor chosen from oxide precursors yielding an oxide forming a liquid phase around the AlN grains during spraying.